

Orem City Code, Article 22-1-8. Appeals.

A. Any person may appeal a decision applying a land use ordinance as follows:

- An interpretation or application of a land use ordinance made by members of City staff may be appealed to the Board of Adjustment. A decision of the Board of Adjustment regarding the interpretation or application of a land use ordinance may be appealed to the City Council. However, an appeal to the City Council shall not be required for an adversely affected party to exhaust the party's administrative remedies.
- A final decision of the Planning Commission may be appealed to the City Council.
- A decision of the City Council may only be appealed to the District Court.

B. An application for appeal to the City Council must be filed in the office of Development Services within thirty (30) days after the date of the decision which is being appealed. Appeals to the Board of Adjustment shall be made pursuant to the procedure outlined in Chapter 2 of the City Code. An adversely affected party shall present to the appeal authority every theory of relief that it can raise in District Court.

C. The owner of private property whose property is subject to a physical taking or exaction by the City as part of a land use application may appeal the City's decision within thirty (30) days after the decision is made. A decision regarding a proposed taking or exaction shall be deemed final and ripe for appeal when approved by the Development Review Committee (DRC). The Planning Commission shall hear and approve or reject the appeal within fourteen (14) days after it is submitted. If the Planning Commission fails to hear and decide the appeal within fourteen (14) days, the decision of the DRC is presumed to be approved. A property owner's failure to appeal the action of the City does not constitute a failure to exhaust available administrative remedies. The Planning Commission shall approve the decision of the DREC if it finds that:

- An essential link exists between a legitimate governmental interest and the exaction; and
- The exaction is roughly proportionate, both in nature and extent, to the impact of the proposed development.
